

Kari Uhlman lives in California. She is a married, retired civil servant and Mending the Soul Facilitator. She volunteers teaching art for domestic violence, sexual assault, and sex trafficking survivors. She studied General Design. She was first introduced to art as a child, through her neighbor. Her acrylic paintings promote joy in others. It's about surrendering everything to Jesus. She wants to convey courage to deal with feelings we prefer to ignore. Upon viewing her pieces, you will immediately be transported to a sense of calm peacefulness. Her acrylic paintings include, but are not limited to stunning, vibrant, welcoming scenes. Her artistic influence is the hand of God, displaying His majesty in all creation.